

NSS

The National Service Scheme (NSS) at Bahra University offers students a platform to engage in community service and social development activities while fostering a sense of responsibility, leadership, and social awareness. The NSS unit at Bahra University provides various programs and initiatives designed to help students contribute to society while developing essential life skills.

Throughout the year, NSS volunteers at Bahra University participate in a variety of activities such as blood donation camps, environmental conservation drives, health and sanitation programs, and educational initiatives for underprivileged children. These activities aim to address pressing social issues while creating a positive impact on the local community. The students also participate in Social Awareness Programs focused on promoting education, health, and hygiene, while emphasizing the importance of civic responsibility.

In addition to these regular initiatives, NSS volunteers take part in Special Camps that are organized in rural and underdeveloped areas. These camps involve extensive community service activities such as:

- Community Development Programs
- Health Camps
- Tree Plantation Drives
- Swachh Bharat Abhiyan (Clean India Mission) activities
- Support for Government Welfare Schemes

These camps provide students with the opportunity to interact directly with the local community, offering practical solutions to societal challenges while also allowing them to gain valuable hands-on experience in leadership, teamwork, and problem-solving.

To further enhance the NSS experience at Bahra University, various NSS Program Officers and experts from different sectors regularly visit the university to conduct workshops, seminars, and motivational sessions. These visits offer students the chance to learn from experienced professionals and develop a deeper understanding of social work and its significance in nation-building.

In addition to the community service activities, NSS Volunteers at Bahra University gain numerous benefits, including:

- Recognition for Social Work: Active participation in NSS helps volunteers earn recognition for their dedication to social causes, which can significantly enhance their personal and professional growth.
- Career Opportunities: Volunteering for NSS activities helps develop important skills such as leadership, project management, and communication, making students more employable in various sectors, particularly in NGOs, government organizations, and social enterprises.

- Certificate of Participation: Active participants in NSS programs receive a certificate of participation, which is recognized by various governmental and non-governmental organizations. This certificate can be an asset when applying for jobs, scholarships, or higher education opportunities.

In essence, the NSS at Bahra University is an excellent opportunity for students to give back to society while gaining valuable life experiences. Through their involvement in community development, health initiatives, and social service activities, NSS volunteers not only contribute to the welfare of others but also develop essential skills that will benefit them in their personal and professional lives.

If you are interested in joining the National Service Scheme (NSS) at Bahra University, please feel free to reach out for further information on the enrollment process and available opportunities.

Dr. Kapil Sethi,
NSS Program Officer

Email: kapil@bahrauniversity.edu.in

